Cumberland/Oxford Halloween Yard contest

Thank you to everyone who decorated their lawns and participated in our Halloween Yard contest. We loved seeing all the Halloween spirit in a time when covid prevented us from running the Haunted Forest.

Dunluce Preschool Fall 2020

We, the Dunluce Preschool Executive Team, have decided that we will not be offering preschool in September.

Considering the amount of time, energy and commitment to ensure our teachers and little preschoolers are in a safe environment, we feel is not in the best interest of everyone involved, including the parent helpers, at this time. We will be watching and listening to what may or may not occur in the fall and evaluate a potential start in January.

Thank you for your patience as we navigate our new environment. If you have any questions, please don't hesitate in contacting us directly.

Sincerely, Dunluce Preschool Executive Team

To our wonderful patrons and volunteers: It is with regret that we inform you that the CDRS board has decided not to put on a show this year. The Variety Show would fall under Phase 3 of the provinces relaunch strategy. As there really is no timeline for when that might take place, and social distancing measures will still be required when it does, it would greatly impede our ability to put together the best show possible for our patrons and volunteers.

Plus, we want to do our part to keep everyone safe. It wasn't an easy decision but one that needed to be made. We appreciate your understanding and look forward to coming back for our 36th year in 2021!

Thanks again for your continued support and know that the fall just won't be the same without you!

Stay Safe

Thank you for engaging virtually as we adjust our engagement practices as a result of COVID-19.

Healthy tips for raising children

Raising children is a big job. It can be overwhelming to think about all the things your child needs to learn to stay safe and healthy.

In addition to teaching children good eating and activity habits, you can also teach them some basic health and safety habits.

Remember that your child learns habits by watching you. If you and the rest of your family follow healthy habits, your child will learn them from you. And if you have bad habits, your child will learn those too.

Good general habits for a healthy life

Help your children learn to: • Think. Children need to learn that actions have consequences. They need to learn the difference between fantasy and reality. Before your children act, encourage them to stop, take a breath, and think about the consequences.

• Talk openly. Encourage your children to talk about what is bothering them.

• Relax. Learn relaxation skills, and teach them to your children.

• Eat well. Encourage your children to learn about and eniov healthy foods.

• Be active. Help your children find physical activities and hobbies they enjoy. Limit daily screen time (not including time for schoolwork).

• No screen time for children younger than two years

• One hour or less for children ages two to four years

• Two hours or less for children five years and older. Preventing illness

Kids get dirty. They play with other kids who may be sick. Teaching them the following habits will keep them healthier:

• Wash your hands each time you use the toilet, after you blow your nose, and before you eat.

 Don't share hats, combs, toothbrushes, or other personal items with other children.

• Cover your mouth when you cough or sneeze.

• Don't touch other children's blood, urine, stool, or other body fluids.

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Breast health is part of your health and well-being. Breast cancer starts when breast cells become abnormal and start to grow out of control. Men and women may both develop breast cancer.A mammogram is an X-ray of the breast. It isone test that is commonly used to look for breast cancer.There are two types of mammograms.•A screening mammogram looks for signs of breast cancer before any symptoms appear.•A diagnostic mammogram looks for breast cancer in women who have symptoms. Or it is done if you had an abnormal screening mammogram. It's also used to find an area of suspicious breast tissue to remove for a biopsy.Surgery is amain treatmentfor breast cancer. Surgery is most often a lumpectomy to remove part of the breast or a mastectomy to remove the whole breast.

If you have been diagnosed with breast cancer and require surgery, breast surgery in Alberta is a same-day surgery, so you'll come to the hospital and go home (be discharged) on the same day.

Same-day surgery is safe and most people prefer to recover at home rather than in the hospital. Your surgeon will consider your health and living arrangements to make sure it's safe for you to go home the same day of your surgery. In special cases, you may need to stay in the hospi-

If you have been diagnosed with breast cancer, contact your local chapter of the Canadian Cancer Society or call 1-888-939-3333 to find a support group in your area. Talking with other people who have faced similar situations can be verv helpful.

New bus stop signs prepare riders for new network

Starting October, residents will start to see new bus stop signs around the city but current bus routes will remain the same. These signs are a key step in preparing for the new bus network launching on April 25, 2021. City crews are starting to install the new signs now because it will take several months to change over all 7,000 signs.

The early timing will also allow customers to get familiar with the new sign design and future new route numbering system. The user-friendly signs incorporate universal accessibility standards so they can be easily seen by a wide range of people. Customers should take note of the coloured temporary stickers on the signs that indicate if the stop will be opening, closing or routes will be changing in spring 2021.

These new bus stop signs indicate a significant and exciting transit change is coming that will give Edmontonians access to a more direct, more frequent and better connected bus service. "The new bus network is part of Edmonton Transit's ongoing efforts to modernize public transit to meet today's needs and provide a foundation that connects to future changes as the City grows to two million people," said Eddie Robar, Branch Manager of Edmonton Transit Service.

Customers can also find information about the new bus stop signs and network bus routes at edmonton.ca/newbusroutes. Individual bus route maps and schedules will be available online in early 2021

Helping 470+ businesses with the Edmonton Economic Recovery Grant Program

In June, the City quickly responded to the growing needs of Edmonton businesses impacted by COVID-19 by creating the Economic Recovery Grant Program. In the last three months, the City has provided financial assistance to more than 474 local businesses, awarding more than $502,000 in grants to individual businesses. Additional grant funding is still available.

The top three industries accessing individual business grants are:

Accommodation or food service (23 per cent)

Other services (including personal services) (22 per cent) Healthcare and social assistance (15 per cent)

The top three ways that businesses are using individual business grant funding are:

Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) or cleaning supplies (57 per cent)

Updating or establishing an online presence or e-commerce (12 per cent)

Marketing or advertising (11 per cent)

Grant streams currently available:

Individual Business Grants $1,000 in matching funds provided directly to local businesses. The money can be used for urgent needs to help individual businesses quickly recover from COVID-19.

Organization Grants

Up to $75,000 for business associations, organizations and economic development groups to support the local economy and small businesses in their relaunch.

To date, the City has awarded three grants for organizations totalling $178,896 in COVID-19 relief. We are currently working with another two approved organizations to fund their programs to support local businesses, and are reviewing five additional applications.

This innovative grant program is like none at the City before-created to address evolving needs while helping businesses relaunch and recover.

"From the start, this program was developed for businesses," said Stephanie Mc-Cabe, Deputy City Manager of Urban Form and Corporate Strategic Development. "The commitment has remained to support businesses because of their importance in the community and how supporting them is essential to supporting people and our vibrant urban places."

Grants under both streams are still available. Businesses that have experienced challenges because of COVID-19 can visit edmonton.ca/businessgrants to apply.

Eligible businesses are encouraged to apply for the funds that are available now.

The Economic Recovery Program is part of the City's ongoing work to support Edmonton's economic recovery, contribute to the community's vitality and prosperity and drive local job creation.

City unveils new snow clearing parking ban, launching winter 2020

The City of Edmonton is implementing a new, two-phase citywide parking ban this winter.

"We have heard from residents that they want improved snow clearing in their neighbourhoods," said Brian Simpson, Branch Manager, Parks and Roads Services. "This parking ban will allow for clearer roads that are easier and safer to navigate for everyone using our streets.

The new two-phase parking ban will take effect this winter, and consists of the following:

Phase 1: Crews clear arterial and collector roads, bus routes and business improvement areas. You may continue to park on your residential street.

Phase 2 (begins after Phase 1): Crews clear residential and industrial roads. You may park in your driveway, in a parking space on a neighbours property with their permission, or on any road cleared during Phase 1 where parking is allowed normally.

In both ban phases, parking will be allowed on any road as soon as it has been cleared. Previously, the public had to wait for the City to call off the ban before parking back on the street.

Phase 1 is anticipated to last approximately 48 hours. Phase 2 would last five to seven days overall, but the impact to individual communities is expected to be less time - approximately 72 hours. In each phase, residents would be able to park on the street once it has been cleared.

"We know this is going to be an adjustment, and this is going to require a community effort," said Simpson. "To keep our streets safe in the winter, we must work together. Edmontonians play an important role in supporting City staff and contractors by moving their vehicles off the street during snow plow events."

The City will focus on education before enforcement, but warnings and fines continue to be options to gain compliance when required. The fine for not following the parking ban is $100, and towing will continue to be used in limited circumstances.

The City is encouraging the public to sign up for parking ban email alerts, and to view a new interactive map that will display which ban phase roads are a part of at edmonton.ca/ SafeTravels.

The City is introducing additional measures to contain the spread of COVID-19 and help protect the people of Edmonton, in response to the voluntary health restrictions introduced in the Edmonton Health Zone by the province.

"We continue to be concerned by the continuing increase in case numbers. We need all Edmontonians to adhere to the health precautions and practise them daily to prevent CO-VID-19 case numbers from increasing any further," said Interim City Manager Adam Laughlin. "As the COVID-19 pandemic wears on, we will not let it wear down our resolve to protect our city, including our most vulnerable community members."

Dr. Deena Hinshaw, Alberta's Chief Medical Officer of Health, announced new voluntary restrictions in Edmonton last week. The Citv's response includes enhanced measures in recreation facilities, additional monitoring and enforcement of public compliance to health and safety rules, and adjustments to ETS service levels and cleaning protocols.

"While we haven't seen it reflected in case numbers yet, we trust Edmontonians are getting the message," said Laughlin. "Compliance with mask wearing is strong. I trust that Edmontonians will adopt the City's adjusted measures with the same spirit of shared responsibility. We've already heard from some sports organizations who are willing to help us spread the word about new protocols at arenas. By working together, we can tackle the rising case numbers and contain the spread of COVID-19.'

Recreation Facilities

The City will make a number of enhancements to protocols and guidelines in recreation facilities and arenas.

There will be no spectator access in areas without designated spectator seating, such as field houses, gyms and most pools.

In facilities with designated, controlled spectator areas, like arenas, 25 percent of regular seating capacity will be allowed (up to 50 spectators, 100 in larger arenas). New capacity figures have been posted to arena websites.

No social event rentals (parties, reunions) or picnic site bookings will be allowed for the remainder of 2020 to discourage larger social aatherings.

Capacity for other indoor bookings and rentals, such as business meetings, has been reduced to 25 per cent of normal room capacity to a maximum of 50 people.

Increased security and crowd monitoring will be implemented at facilities to ensure safety protocols are being followed.

Edmonton Transit Service

New measures adopted by ETS include:

Adjustments to ETS service levels, including school service, to support physical distancing and gathering restrictions.

Revised sales channels for low income transit pass sales that reduce the need for in- person contact.

Same-day cleaning and disinfecting of bus shelters located near schools when notified of a school outbreak.

Temporary Pandemic Accommodation

Preparations are underway for the use of the Edmonton Convention Centre as a temporary pandemic accommodation for individuals experiencing homelessness. People who stay at the convention centre will have a safe, warm place to sleep, receive daily meals and access storage, washrooms, shower facilities and culturally appropriate health, wellness and housing supports. The space is expected to open on October 30 and will scale up week by week to reach a 300-bed capacity and to provide a full spectrum of services.

The City is working with organizers of Camp Pekiwewin to ensure safe, suitable accommodation like the Edmonton Convention Centre for those staying at the camp. An end date for the camp is linked to the activation and full operational setup of the temporary pandemic accommodation.
