Okinawan Karate and Ryukyu Kobudo!

McLeod and Area Residents, we have the prescription for the digital life doldrums - Weary from the virtual world? Sick of streaming? Thumbs tired of scrolling?

This fall, put down the screen and get on the floor. Discover Okinawan karate and Ryukyu kobudo!

Our program offers sport-based classes for youth, families, and a more physical traditional program for adults, both focussing on challenging activities and skill-building in a fun and supportive environment. For an extra challenge, immerse yourself in the complementary indigenous weapons art of Okinawa - kobudo.

Enhance your physical fitness, discipline and self-confidence.

McLeod students are able to train at our other venues at no extra cost - train up to four nights a week for the price of one. Quality instruction and a supportive family atmosphere.

Edmonton's Annual Community League Day

A neighbourhood might be the place you live, but a community is a place where you belong. Whether it's walking down your street and seeing familiar faces, stepping into a park to relax and play with your neighbours, or just finding a place where people know your name and you know your presence matters, community is about the things that make us feel connected, that make us feel at home. This September 20, Edmonton's annual Community League Day returns with a message for everyone, old or new: you're welcome here.

From pancake breakfasts and outdoor movie nights to block parties and barbecues, every year on Community League Day, Leagues across Edmonton host a variety of events that highlight the energy and diversity of their neighbourhoods. No two Community League Day events are exactly the same, but they all share the same goal: making sure every Edmontonian knows they have a place to belong.

"For over 100 years, Edmontonians have known the best way to get to know your neighbours, the best way to explore what the city has to offer, the way to get the most out of your neighbourhood, is to be a part of their Community League," said Laura Cunningham-Shpeley, Executive Director of the Edmonton Federation of Community Leagues (EFCL). "We really want everyone to have that experience. We want to tell them that, no matter what you're here for—whether you want to sit on the board or just share a cold drink with your community—we're here, and you're welcome to join us."

Founded in 1921, the EFCL supports Edmonton's 163 Community Leagues — the volunteer-run organizations that help make Edmonton's neighbourhoods such vibrant, connected, inclusive places. This year, the EFCL is hoping to underscore the importance of reaching out to Edmontonians who may not yet know about the League in their area, and encouraging them to become card-carrying members of their Community League. Edmonton has welcomed hundreds of thousands of new residents in the past few years, and whether they've come from outside the country, the province or just outside of city limits, they might not be familiar with Community Leagues — which are a one-of-a-kind, made-in-Edmonton institution for fostering community.

"Community League Day is our chance to say: 'This is for you,' our chance to show them who their neighbours are, what their neighbourhood is like, and how amazing this city can be when we all get together," says Cunningham-Shpeley. "I think one of the really amazing things about Community Leagues is that you shape them as you participate in them: they're all a reflection of their communities, which means all you need to do is show up, and you're a part of it."

Because as Edmonton continues to grow and change, Community Leagues and Community League Day offer a chance to strengthen the roots that hold it together: neighbourliness, participation, and the simple joy of feeling welcome.

You can find more information, including a map of Community League Day events and how to find your local League, at CLDay.ca.
